INAUGURAL PARADE AND CEREMONIES AT COLUMBUS, OHIO.

The City Crawded With Strangers, Public Officials, Clubs, and Private Citizens. The Governor Addresses a Lengthy Communicution in the General Assembly.

COLUMBIES, Jan. 10.—Governor J. B. Foraker was inaugurated here to-day with the most imposing and impressive ceremonies ever known at Onio's capital. The principal exercises consisted of a reception and parade in which the entire Ohio National guard. Including regiments of cavnlry and artillery, and Republican chibs and eivie organizations from all parts of the state and some other states took part.

Old residents say that never before have so many strangers attended an inaugural, Clubs from abroad began to arrive early and overy five minutes one or two of them came marching up High street. Interest centered n the Cincinnati elubs. Word was given ent that there would be the largest representation of them ever seen at an inangural, and the more than local fame of the members made all anxlous to see the Cinchmutt-

At 10:45 the first move in the inaugural exercises was made. At that hour the innugural committees of the senate and the house, the citizens' innugural committee, Mayor Bruck, President Hayden, of the city council, and President Randail of the bourd of trade, who had assembled in the gavernor's office, took carringes and set out for the governor's residence. They were escorted by the first Cleveland troop of cavalry. Arriving at the executive mansion the officials entered and were ushered into the handsome parlors, where the governor, surrounded by friends, stood to receive them.

But a few minutes were spent in the exchange of greetings, and the governor accompanied by Hon, T. C. Snyder, senator from Youngstown, and followed by the com-Respectfully invites attention to his complete mittees, descended the steps, and, amid the shouts of Holiday Goods, comprising a large shouts of the assembled crowd and the respectful salute of the soldiers, he entered his Tho various committees followed in other earriages, and while the thousands that erowded the sidewalks and pressed out into the street set up a mighty shout, the earriages and escort slowly proceeded back to the state house.

The street was packed with enthusiastic eitizens, who yelied with a fervor that made his excellency stare in surprise. Ladies and all joined in the joyous demonstration, and hats, flags and handkerchiefs filled the frosty air. Many of the houses along the route were decorated.

The governor and escort were driven to the north gate of the state house grounds, and there, disnounting, proceeded to the The companies represented by the undersigned insure at reasonable rates all insurable property against loss or damage by Fire, Lightning or Wind. and there, dismounting, proceeded to the executive office, whence, after a few minutes spent in further handshaking, the governor and Senator Snyder took up their march to the platform, erected on the esplanade at the head of the steps on the east side of the capitol.

There was a perfect sen of upturned faces presented to the distinguished gentlemen as they stepped out onto the esplanable. At the right were political clubs from all over the state, tilling the immense space between the east gate and the State street fence. At the east gate and the State street fonce. At the left were the troops, standing like statues, arms presented, a superb body of men. In front, directly at the foot of the stone steps, were the marshals and staff officers of the parade on their horses.

Governor Foraker, Senator Snyder, Rev. Dr. McChesney and the principal officers of the state stepped to the front of the platform and, when a degree of quiet had been obtained, Senator Snyder called the huge assembly to order.

The services were opened with prayer by Rev. Simon McChesney.

At the conclusion of the prayer, Senator Snyder sald:

"The oath of office will now be adminis tered by Chief Justice Owen,"

The oath of office was administered in the urual manner, and then Senator Snyder for the last time stepped forward and went through the needless, but customary cere-mony of "introducing" the governor. The introduction gave the throng another chance to cheer, and they eagerly seized it and set up deafening shout. Then the governor de ivered his address. It was as follows:

'Gentlemen of the General Assembly: 'One week ago, in compliance with the requirements of the constitution, I sent you an annual message. It called your attention to all matters pertaining to state affairs, concerning which I desired to communicate with

"For this reason, it is not necessary to detain you now with the discussion of such topics. The few remarks I shall make at this time, will, therefore, be of a general nature. We are at the close of the first century of civilization and government on Ohio soil. It is a fitting time to recall our past achievements and the lessons they have taught. One hundred years ago to-day, our first settlement had not yet been made. This whole country was an unbroken wilderness,

There were here no fields, or farms, or towns, or cities; no roads, canals or steamboats; no railways, telegraphs or telephones; no school houses, colleges or newspapers; no civilization and no civilized people. Except only the Indians, there was no one to govern or be governed.

"Nevertheless, events had transpired which were, with respect to us, of vast eonsequence and determining character. The independence of the United States had been achieved, and the new nation had taken its place among the nations of the earth. The constitution had been adopted and the thirteen original states had been bound together by its ties. Whatever hesitation and donot had at any time existed as to the wisdom and propriety of controlling the government and destiny of the territory northwest of the river Onio had passed away, and the ordiance of 1787 had been enacted. Thus it had been settled that we should not only become a part of the United States, but, what is still more important, that these bills and valleys should be dedicated to human liberty and that all our governmental structure, here to be erected, should rest upon the great fundamental truth, that religion, morality and knowledge are essential to good government. The fortune that attended us in this regard cannot be exaggerated. It consisted, not simply in the consequences that resulted from the character of this Instrument, but also in the fact that there probably was no time elther before or afterward, when such an ordinance could have been adopted.

"Al' such efforts, previously lande had fuiled, and almost inunclintely following, a struggle commenced, for its revocation or modification. The sentiment so developed against it would have been sufficient to have prevented it, but it was not sufficient to destroy it. It was destined to stand, and the result was, acceptable conditious that attracted the moving tides of emigration and quickly brought us, not only a freedomloving, but a vigorous, enterprising, self-reliant, God fearing and union-joving population.

"The ordinance was adopted July 13, 1787. The first settlement, consisting of forty-eight parsons, was made at the mouth of the Muskingum, April 7, 1588. A few weeks later, on the 15th day of July, 1788, followed the inauguration of Ohio's first governor. The scence presented on that occasion was widely different from that which is witnessed here to-day. The official record is brief, but it is both interesting and suggestive. It informs us that by the use of forest branches, a "bower" was erected on the site of Marietta, the seat of government, and that there ail the inhabitants of the piace and gathered. How large nn mndience they made may be inferred from the fact that on the first day iie affairs of Cincinnati, had charge of the of September following, the settlement number leubs, and Gen. Axline directed the militia. bered 132 souls, ali told.

"General Arthur St. Clair, accompanied by the secretary and two judges, all of whom had been appointed by President Washington, to establish and administer the eivil government of the territory, appeared with their commissions and were duly welcomed, on behalf of the people and presented to them, by Gen, Enfus Putnam. After the reading of their commissions and some highly appreciated remarks by the governor on the importance of good government,' the ordinance of 1787 was read by the secretay. This was received with cheers that made the forests echo.' The record further states that the exercises were throughout of such grave, formal and dignified character as to greatly impress all who were present. "On the following Sabbath divine services were held, with special reference to, and as a part of the inniguration ceremonies. The minister preached a 'powerful sermon' from a text found in the fifth and sixth verses of the nineteenth chapter of Exodus-'Now, therefore, if ye will obey my voice, indeed, and keep my covenant, theu ye shnii be a peculiar treasure unto me, above ali people; for all the earth is mine, and yo shall be unto nie a kingdom of priests and an holy nation.' "Such are the simple minals of that event, Except the bare statement that it was a powerful sermon, nothing is said as to the character of the minister's remarks. But with the text before us, we can safely assume what some of the thoughts were that entered into his discourse. At least, he might, with propriety, have likened their recent escape from the tyranny of England to the fight of the Hobrews; the forests that surrounded them, to the wilderness of Sinai; and the possessions upon which they were entering, to the land of Chinan. There was enough, In their situation, of striking similarity to that of the children of Israel, to make the injunctions and promises of the text impres-

"What now of the century upon which we are entering? Only God knows. It does not seem possible that there can be wrapt up in the next one hundred years so much of development as has been made during the lastand yet there may be more. The last fifty years have signally eclipsed the next precedlng ilfty. Had this truth been foretold, who could have given it credence? But whether we are to continue this marvelous march of of progress or not, we stand charged with respousibilities as grave as those which rested npon the fathers who attended our first inanguration. To them was confided the duty of laying the foundations, to us is entrusted the superstructure. Had they failed there would have been disappointment. If we fail there will be both disappointment and destruction. For in that event, we dash to pieces alike the hopes for posterity and the spiendid works that have been wrought. We . adopt for our guidance the lessons of the disposition to take care of our country. Let same ideas as we go forward in the discharge to make any further statement, of the duties that are before us. To this end we must discard and reject all that falls short of the requirements of the highest

which is calculated to advance America. But if we would advance America, we must especially remember to always stand irmly for the people's right to be honestly heard at "To guarantee this right by constitutional and statutory provisions, and then allow it to be abused is a fraud and a disgrace. It strikes a fatai blow at the very founda-tions of free popular government. It is just cause of congratulation that such crimes nave been suppressed in Ohio. When the governor had concluded his address a final yell was given, and the procession, headed by him, reformed and marched back into the state house, through the rotunda, down the steps and on down the walk to the stand erected at the west gate, where the militia and civic organizations were reviewed. This ended the formal exercises, and the governor retired to his office, where he held an informal lovee and received renewed congrutulations.

The parade by the militia and political clubs was a grand display. The various bodies, military and civic, formed on streets adjacent to the capitol grounds, and moved into position shortly before noon. At the conclusion of the inangural address they marched out, the eivie organizations leading, and after passing in review before the gov-ernor and state officials, proceeded ulong through the principal streets of the city. SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—The Shanghni Courier, just received, gives many curious facts in regard to the wedding proparations of the young emporer of China. It says almost in single the, each pilgrim presenting though the wedding of the young emperor of his boliness with a certificate of the Peter's China will probably not take place before pence that he had paid into the bank. This 1889, thousands of hands are already busy with the lady's trousseau and wedding presents, which have probably never been equaled in wealth at any other court. The following are the presents the young emperor is presenting his flance before their marriage, after the actual engagement present, which consists of a gold seal, richly inlaid with jewsly, the handle being formed by two gold dragous. Up to a month previous to the wedding the lady is presented with ten piebald horses with complete trappings, ten gilt belinets and cuirasses, one hundred pieces of atin and two hundred pieces of cotton materlal as wedding presents.

The bride receives 200 ounces of gold, 10,000 onness of silver, one gold tea service, consisting of teapot and one cup with a iid; one silver service, two silver wash basins, 1,000 pieces of satin, twenty horses, with complete trappings; twenty horses without trappings, twenty saddles for pack horses and mules, and costly gifts are also made to the parents and brothers and sisters of the

The bride's lists are the most remarkable articles of the rich tronssenu. The winter court hat has a rim of satfn; the crown is made of red velvet, from the center of which rises a button composed of three parts, each of which is ornamented with three small obiong pearls, willio in the center of each part another spiendid pearl is set in gold and surmounted by a gold phoenix.

A handkerchief worn on the breast is green, richly embroidered, trimmed with otter skins and embroidered with gold, dragon fans and skirts of many different kinds are also part of this gorgeous outilt, and the furniture of the future empress is in SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.-Laura Wolster's long sleep, lasting over ten weeks, is attracting widespread attention here. Some physicians think it a case of catalepsy, but the condition of the girl is at times hardly like that of a person suffering from that disease. Saturday morning her sister, as usual, asked her what she wished to eat, and she mechanically said "ginger bread." This was given her with a glass of milk. Once the devoted sister asked her what she wanted. "What have you?" was the unexpected answer. The sister told her, "Oh, I don't know; give me something to eat," answered Laura, with an expression of weariness, the first Intelligent expression noticed from her since she was taken ill.

In 1886 the Auditor reported the number of legal voters in the State at 388,279. His last report places the number at only 277,827-a falling off of over 100,000. This looks rather singular, but the decrease is only apparent, and shows how derelict the Assessors have been. Under the law in 1886 they were paid 15 cents for every list they took. Now they are paid according to the value of the property they assess, and not by the list of tax-payers they report. If a penalty was advertising lump coal at thirteen cents, and attached for every list omitted the Assessors would prove more particular and diligent in the discharge of their duties.

WELCOME COAL.

Rise In the Ohio Prevents Famine in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 10.-At 7a. m. to-day the first boat of the Pittsburg coal fleet arrived in Clucinnati. It was the Eagle, having in charge six barges. The 3,000,000 bushels from the Kanawha field also arrived to-day. Up to 10 a. m. the following additional boats had arrived: The Beaver, John Lewis, and Excei, from Kauawha, and the Matheson, Sam Clark, Reoue and Champion, from Pittshurg. The Champion met the Diamond at Ripley, reileved her of hor tow and the latter at puce returned to Pittsburg. The Champion will return empty to Pittsburg. D'uning the past year the Childrens'
Home at West Union, Ohio, cared for eighty-two children at a total cost of over eight million bushels.

Thirty-sex hours almost incessant rain at the headwaters of the Ohio has put the chanael in fine navigable condition from Pittsburg to Calro. At Pittsburg it reached a stage of twenty-two feet. The river is free trom ice, the warm weather the past few lays having caused it to rot and sink. The stage of the river at the water works at 6 a. m. was twenty-two feet two inches. It s still rising ut the rate of an inch an hour, a rise of thirteen inches being reported since p. m. Sunday.

The weather is becoming colder and there is no longer any danger of a flood. The local temperature at 6 a. m. was 29 degrees above zero, or 3 degrees below the freezing point. The supply of coal is at last equal to the demand. Fancy prices for fuoi at Cincinnati is for the present a thing of the past. The prolonged struggle to keep from from freezng came to a sudden eud to-day by dealers nut twelve cents and slack at eight cents.

As soon as the empty craft return from Cincinnati and Louisville there will be a goneral resumption of work in the river mines, glving employment to 5,000 miners, who aave been idle for some months.

The damage by the ice at Davis Island dam is not as first reported. But one wicket was with little expense.

THE SEERS OF PERSIA.

and Their Influence in the Domains of the Shah.

The monajem, or astrologer, is a power in Persia. He is recognized as a man of science, a member of a learned profession. The chief astrologer is a high court officer, from whose ruling there is no appeal, for his declsions are based upon knowledge that is communicated directly from the stars. Thus, if he decrees that the asylum of the universe must not start on a hunting expedition on Thursday, but that haif an hour after midnight on Saturday will be the fortunate hour, he is able to give irrefragable reasons for his conclusions by showing that Saturn is in the ascendant in one case, while on Saturday night, at the precise time mentioned, there will be a happy conjunction of Venus.

if another astroioger is consuited, he will give the same story. Every hour in the day, and every day in the year, is thus worked onl as fortunate, indifferent or uniucky iu the astrologer's books of fate.

Besides these calendars they have as their stock in trade a piumb finc, a level, a celesthal sphere and an astrolabe. The astrolakes are in the form of a gigantle watch and are often beautifully made. Every large town contains at least two astrologers, and they are very far from being poor. A Perslan may find an astrologer very useful, especially if be be an officer and desires to evade some responsibility. Thus, suppose a provincial governor is ordered to the capital and that he does not want to go, what more powerful reason for delay in starting than to reply that he is walting for a foriunate hour, and what easier than to induce the astrologer to fail to find one! in the meantlmo the officer has time to administer the necessary bribes at court, and the storm blows over. Istikham, tossing up, or the drawing of the lot, is done with a rosnry. A bead is grasped at haphazard; "good," "bad," "indifferent," is ejaculated at each bead, till the big terminal one is reached, and that decide the question. Answers are given in convarsation, bargains are made or refused, and serious acts are undertaken under the guidance of this formula. Another way is to thrust a knife into the leaves of the Koran or one of the poetical books and be guided by what is found at the piace. The diviners are real-quacks and gain their success by workiug on the fears of the people. The guilty party in a scandal or criminal inquiry in his nervousness is provoked to do some act that brings about his detection.-Popular Science

The Vanderbilt Bowling Alley. The essertion of an architect recently that he had built a magnificent bowling alley in the attic of Cornelius Vanderblit's magnificent house on Fifty-seventh street and Fifth avenue has caused the passers by to raise their eyes to the vast and impressive roof of that structure. They try to hear the tenpins fail, despite the fact that the architect says that he has deadened the walls so that nothing can be heard, and they picture to themselves the master and mistress of a $100,-000,000 merrily bowling their time away up among the clouds. This particular Vanderblit mansion is more of a mystery than any of the others, although all of the exteriors are gioonly and pretentious enough to excite interest.—New York Sun.

would be a truthful name to give to Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery, the most efficacious medicine yet discovered for arresting the early development of pulmonary disease. John W. Alexander the Unanimous Judge Cole Explains His Position in Choice of the Democrats for Sheriff.

Proceedings of the County Convention-The New Executive Committee.

The Democratic county convention was offered, at Mrs. L. V. Davis'. Don't buy held at the court house yesterday and was an unusually quiet and orderly meeting. The result, so far as the nomination of a candidate for Sheriff is concerned, was indicated pretty clearly by the returns from the precinct meetings published in yesterday's issue. John W. Reference to the Troubles in Rowan County.

Has Endeavered to Maintain the Civil Authority Vested in the Judiciary by the Constitution and General Statutes.

MAYSVILLE, KY., January 10, 1888. To the People of the Fourteenth Judicial District of Kentucky: Ere this it has become known to you that, although my court at this place is at hand, I decline for the present to sit as Judge of this district until it is settled whether or not you have misplaced your confidence in me; until I have exercised the privilege so generously recommended by a State official of "disproving" forsooth the 'charges' made against me.

Bit wherefore am I accused of "gross official misconduct, If not corruption" in Rowan County? Even for this, because in dispensing the laws as I understood them. I chose to be governed by a sense of right and duty, and not by the dictates Fern Leaf had held no meeting and of the late Executive and his military; last item does not include all crops Chester had not reported. It was moved because I endeavored to uphold the regular representation in the convention. have established and guaranteed in the them. Lastly, orders, not mlne, instructed A call of the precincts was then made them to carry away private property without any compensation. How then could a court, with an impracticable Military, and hostile and biased Executive be expected under all these circumstances to bring offenders to justice.

Now, let us turn to the General Statutes and the Constitution. Article 1st, section 1st of the Constitution says: "The powers of the government of the State of Kentucky shall be divided into three distinct departments and each of them shall be confided to a separate body of magistracy, to-wit: Those which are legislative to one; those which are executive to another; those which are judidlary to another.

Section second says: "No person or collection of persons, being of one of those departments, shall exercise any power properly belonging to either of the others."

Article 13th Section 26 of the Bill of Rights says: "The Military shall, in all cases and at all times, be in strict subordination to the civil power."

Chapter 76, Section 36 of the General Statutes, on calling out the State Guards, says: "The foregoing provision (Section eight) of this law relating to the subordination of the reserve Milltia to the civil power when called into active service shall apply with equal force to the State Guard when employed in active service." But what does section eight say? It reads as follows; "Whenever the one-half price. Look over them when in our store. Militla of the reserve or any part thereof shall be called into active service, it shall act in conjunction with and subordinate to the civil power of the district in which it is operative. The civil authority having the controlling power shall be in the foliowing gradation: Judge of the Court of Appeals; Judge of the Circuit, Common Pleas, Chancery or Criminal Court of a criminal, jurisdiction of a Circuit Court; Judge of a County Court; Sheriff; The Oldest Magistrate of the Coun-Jallerf; Justice of the Peace; Constable, in the absence of a Judge of the Conrt of Appeals, or any other of the officers herein named, next in rank in the order named, who shall represent and exercise the civil power in relation to the Military of the Commonwealth."

Regulating my conduct by the doctrine just set forth I resisted encroachments; I maintained that the civil power. is paramount to the Military; that therefore, the Judiciary knows no master; a his end was near and expressed his beed for even in this day of liberty. Reason, justice, common sense, my trust from the people, all forbade me to yield this principle and basely cringe before a few usurping brass buttons. Entertaining this opinion it is no wonder the Milltary and myself found points of difference. Whether I was right or wrong I leave it to a generous public and to a fair and intelligent committee.

However, I will say this much, right or wrong, if whenever the Military are call. ed out, they are to be sent to override the Courts of the land, they would a thousand times better be at once disbanded: and if the law on the subject of their dutics is not yet sufficiently explicit, the time is not inopportune to make it so.

In fine, for reasons heretofore mentioned, I have incurred the displeasure of the late Executive and his Military : for these not corruption in office." If to uphold the right of the Judiciary be an offense, then have I offended, to this extent and this only. I am respectfully, ty Passes Away at His Home Near Orangeburg.

DEATH OF 'SQUIRE CORYELL.

'Squire W. D. Coryell dled suddenly about 9 o'clock yesterday morning at his home near Orangeburg. He had been in feeble health for a long time, but was np and about the house only a few minutes before his death. He reallzed that principle not unworthy of being contend- lief, only a few minutes before he breathed his last, that he would not live through the day. His death is attributed to some disease of the heart.

> The deceased was a native of Mason, County, and was eighty years old last August. His father, Cornelius Corvell, was one of the pioneers of this section, having settled on the home place near Oraugeburg in the days when Indians were numerous. 'Squire Coryell enjoyed the confidence and esteem of the people of Mason and was elected to several official positions by them. Between 1840 and 1850 he served one term in the Legislature as Representative. In 1853 or 1854 he was Deputy Sheriff, and he held the office of Justice of the Peace in Orangeburg precinct almost contlinuously since sometime in 1860. He was the oldest Magistrates in the county.

He was married twice, his first wife being a Miss Bryant, of Frankfort, and his second a Miss O'Bannon, of Mt. Carmel. Both his wives are dead. Four children-two sons and two daughterssurvive him.

The funeral took place this morning at 10 o'clock, Rev. Mr. Harris, of the M. E. Church, South, officiating, after which the remains were interred in the family burying-ground.

S. F. Fristor and wife have sold to John C. Kirk a house and three lots in Washington for $1,200.

PROCEEDINGS OF BOTH BODIES OF THE NATIONAL LEGISLATURE.

Bills Introduced in the Senate and House. Mr. Baker, of Illinois, Resigns From the Committee on Claims—The Maxwell Case Before the Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.-In the senate today Mr. Sherman introduced bills to authorise the secretary of the treasury to Invest in good bonds the fund held by the treasury for the redemption of National bank notes; also to authorize National banks to issue circulating notes to the par value of bonds deposited; also to provide for a National bureau to prevent importations of adulterated food products, etc.

Mr. Evarts introduced a bill to protect New York hnrbor from obstruction.

At the close of morning business in the secate, Mr. Brown called up his resolution for the abolition of internal revenue taxes, and proceeded to address the senate. Mr. Brown was still talking at 2 o'clock, when the educational bill came up and was laid aside to allow him to proceed.

The House.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.-Mr. Buker, of Illinois, tendered his resignation as a member of the committee on claims, and it was ac-

Mr. Kelley, of Pennsylvania, introduced a joint resolution for the printing of a supplement to Wharton's international law. Re-

On motion of Mr. Crisp, of Georgia, a resolution was adopted granting to the committee on elections the sessions of the house.

Mr. Shaw, of Maryland, chairman of the committee on accounts, reported a resolution designating the committees entitled to employ clerks.

Lamar's Appointment.

WASI INGTON, Jan. 10.—The senate judiciry met this morning and the question of confirmation of Mr. Lamar was gone into. The session was consumed by Mr. Evarts, who criticised the appointment and opposed confirmation. The discussion is understood have clearly indicated a division of the committee on party lines and nu adverse majority report. The resignation of Mr. Lamar as secretary of the interior, which was sent in and accepted by the president late Saturday evening, removes the reason for delaying action on the Vilas and Dicklinson nominations, but no steps were taken to-day to secure immediate action on either.

Hilmois Appointment.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The secretary of the interior to-day, appointed John B. Wright, of Tennessee, who for sometime past has been chief of the mineral division in the general land oilice to the position of law clerk in the office. Mr. Wright succeeds John W. Leburnes, who was to-day dismissed. Mr. Lebarnes has been connected with the law department of the land office for years under past Republican administra-. llons, but was retained in the position which he vacates to-day by Mr. Sparks, when he became commissioner of the general land

Habens Corpus Case Dismissed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The United States supremo court to-day decided the habeas corpus case involving the mayor and common council of Lincoln, Neb., who were imprisoned for contempt of court in removing idge, after the Federal court had ordered them to stop an investigation into the officer's offnirs. The supreme court holds that the Federal court had no jurisdiction and had no right to interfere in a criminal tase of this character.

The Hennepin Canal.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10,-Friends of the Hennepin canal project say they Intend to push their measure in the house as soon as the committees get to work. That they received strong endorsement at the hands of the last congress, and falled only through the inaction of the chief executive.

The Maxwell Case.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.-A motion was made in the United States supreme court today to dismiss the Maxwell case from St. Louis, on grounds of want of jurisdiction, Decision was withhold.

THE READING STRIKE.

A Meeting of the General Executive Board to Take Action.

PRILADELPHIA, Jan 10.—A meeting of the General Executive Board Knights of Labor to take action on the Reading railroad em ployes, and miners' strike will be held Wednesday. The time of meeting depends en tirely upon the time the members of the general board arrive in this city. Barry, who was in Chleago yester.lay morning, started at once for Philadelphia upon receipt of a telegram so instructing him from Secretary Hayes. Aylesworth and Carleton have also been notified, and it is supposed that they have started for this city. Neither Builey nor McGnire have been heard from, and it is not at all rertain that they will be present at the meeting. If they are not there the meeting will be left to four members of the general board since Mr. Powderly is too ill to attend. It is impossible to say what will be, done except that the committees from the miners' and the rallroad employes' district assemblies will be present and make their statements of the standing of the strikes. The general board will probably take action at once looking to a settlement by arbitration, and the Reading company may be asked by the board to submit the whole matter under dispute to disinterested parties

A well attended meeting of the provisional committee of the anti-administrationist Knights of Labor was held yesterday afternoon in Kensington. Arrangements were perfected for forming a new district assembly of the disuffected locals, founded on a plan similar to the ordlnary districts of the Knights of Labor, but to be outside the jurisdiction of the general executive board, The carpet workers with but few exceptions will join the new body, and around it, as a nucleus, the other disaffected local and district assemblies are expected to arrange themselves. Numerous accessions to the ranks were reported at the meeting.
